"I rise to second the appeal of the gentleman from Ohio to keep all party feeling out of legislation," said John Allen, of Mississippi, in his slow, drawling Southern accents. Instantly the members began erowding about him and the galleries leaned over to catch his words. "i have devoted all my time since I came to Congrese," he continued, "pouring oil on the troubled waters. [Laughter.] If there is any member of the House whose record justifies him in appealing for nonpartisan action here, that man is General Grosvenor, of Ohio. [Renewed laughter.] I thought the proposition was whether or not we should have a quorum. Some gentlemen seem to think that it is a party question. The tactics some of our friends want us to pursue reminds me of the theory of a distinguished cavalry colonel whom I knew during the war. On one occasion he was leading a gallant retreat [laughter] when some indiscreet member of his command began firing at his pursuers. 'Stop that firing,' yelled the distinguished colonel; 'it just makes 'em madder.' [Laugh-ter.] We are now told," continued Mr. Allen, making the application of his story, "that we should stop firing, as it only makes 'em | the Republicans | mad and savage, only in such legislation as pleases them. I thought that was what we were sent here for-to fire at 'em. However (waving his hand deprecatingly), in view of the distressed condition of the country. and the millions who are out of work, I want to join with General Grosvenor in protesting against anything like partisan-ship." [Laughter and applause.]

Mr. McRae denounced as false the statement that the administration was opposed to going ahead with the Tucker bill. "Woe be it unto the member of the administration," said he, "who consents to such a programme." You may join with any set of men to take away the money of the people, but I believe every Democrat wants to give to everybody the right to vote, and I south, East and West, to get together. It is our duty. The Wilson bill has been put behind us. Why should we hesitate when the people's liberties are in peril!"

This sally was greeted with Democratic cheers and Republican jeers. After some further remarks from Mr. Burrows and General Grosvenor, the motion was put and parried, and then the House adjourned. TWO REPORTS ON THE BILL.

The majority report on the Tucker bill repealing the federal election laws, prepared by its author, declared that the purpose and object for which these laws were passed have long since passed away. The first part of the report goes into the constitutionality of the laws. "Surely no officer of the army or navy," it says, "should be left to determine when it is necessary to bring troops to the polls, and the Constitution has impliedly prohibited it." With reference to those laws relating to the appointment, duties and compensation of supervisors of election and deputy marshals, the report goes into the constitutionality of the laws that were passed under the warrant of the section of the Constitution prescribing times and places and mapner of holding congressional elections, and then says: "The object of legislation should be to prevent conflicts between State and federal authority. These statutes have been fruitful in producing them. Enacted in reconstruction times, when it was deemed necessary to use drastic measures, the conditions which they were designed to meet having happily passed away, we feel they cannot be too quickly erased from the statute books. Let every trace of reconstruction legislation be wiped from the statute books; let the States understand that elections are in their own hands, and if there be fraud, coercion and force they alone will suffer by it. Responding to the demand for purity in elections, many of the States have enacted laws to protect the purity of the ballot."

The report concludes: "These statutes should be speedily repealed, because they mix State and federal authorities; because they have been and will be used as part of the machinery of political parties to reward friends and destroy enemies; because, under them, the rights of citizens have been taken from them; because their enactment shows a distrust of the States and their ability to guard the elections, and last, because their repeal will eliminate the judiciary from the political arena and restore somewhat the confidence of the people in the integrity and impartiality of the Johnson, of North Dakota, goes at length into the constitutionality of these laws. quoting extensively from the record of debates at the time of their passage, decisions of the Supreme Court, construing them and concludes with a strong argument in favor of their expediency. It draws a picture of the conditions existing in the South prior to enactment of these laws, from the report prepared in 1809 by Hon, William Lawrence, then a member of the House from Ohio, and the condition of Bliairs after their enactment, from the report of the late Sunset Cox, of New York, made in 1877. Both of these reports relate only to the elections in the city of New York. It is very remarkable that the miport'y report does not even allude to the effects of the election laws in the South. This, Mr. Johnson sags, 18 in accordance with the policy of the Republicans not to raise the bleedy-shirt issue. They say, if it is raised, it will be by the other side.

FAULKNER'S AMENDMENT.

A Silver Coinage Scheme Tacked on the Sherman Act Repeal Bill.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 .- Senator Daniel, of Virginia, occupied the time of the Benate to-day in a carefully prepared argument against the repeal of the Sherman law. He spoke to crowded galleries and a good senatorial audience. During the course of his speech many members of the House came into the chamber and took seats in the rear of Senators' chairs, or stood against the walls.

When the routine morning business was concluded Mr. Stewart, of Nevada, moved to take up his resolution for a committee to investigate whether Senators were interested in national banks. Mr. Voorhees's counter motion to proceed to consideration of the repeal bill was agreed to on a viva voce vote, which was quite unanimous, and Mr. Stewart sat down.

Mr. Faulkner submitted an amendment to the repeal bill, which was read. It pro-Vides first for the coinage of the bullion now in the treasury at its coinage value, worth new $174.000,000, at the rate of $3,-000,000 per month, and authorizes, in addition, the purchase of 1,550,000 ounces per month, though this amount purchased is not to be coined until after all the bullion now in the treasury is coined, unless, in the opinion of the Secretary of the Treasnry, the business demands of the country require it. After all the bullion now in the treasury is coined the amendment provides that $3,000,000 worth of silver shall be purchased and coined every month until the aggregate silver circulation of the country shall reach $800,000,000. All silver dollars thus coined and heretofore coined are to be legal tender.

Mr. Hawley rose to a question of personal explanation. Mr. Teller had said in the recent discussion between them that he | Mr. Hawley had remained away from the Senate during the present session. That Senator had corrected it in the Congressional Record, but that went for nothing. If not corrected in the reports of the press associations in a few minutes such things were sent like lightning throughout the country. That statement had been published in Connecticut and he could not have the respect of his constituents unless he attended to business. He said he had been absent but three days. Mr. leller said that he did not mean to say that the Senator from Connecticut was unduly absent; in fact, he did not suppose he had been gone three days. His remark conveyed no suggestion of criticism.

The repeal bill was then taken up, and Mr. Daniel addressed the Senate in opposition to the measure. Alluding to Prestdent Cleveland, Mr. Daniel said he had been loyal to him in three campaigns. He expected in many a day of battle yet to bear his colors and defend his cause. He would not pay him the tribute of the Soness man, who has convictions." He any address for 15 cents.

would imitate that example as he understood it, and should show him and all that an American Senator had his convictions, "Why don't you bring in a Democratic | and was brave, honest and true to them, and would defend them. [Applause.] Mr. Stewart rose to a question of privilege. Yesterday, in speaking of an editolin. "and then we won't ask your aid. You rial in the Washington Post, he had said it might as well try to stem the torrents of a was "probably paid for." He had used the language inadvertently, and now desired to withdraw it as being uncalled for and untrue. After a brief executive session the Senate adjourned. In regard to the situation in the Senate Mr. Voorbees said, to-day, that he was still determined to press the repeal bill to as early a consideration as possible. "It is, however, necessary," he said, "to observe the courtesies required by the traditions and rules of the Senate, and I really believe that by showing due regard to these points we shall be able to make greater progress than if we violated them. Senators who oppose the bill must soon come to see that we have been acting with exceptional liberality, and I am sure that sort of conduct will have its effect upon them." Replying to a question as to how he expected to bring the matter to a close, Mr. Voorhees said, with the legitimate speech making out of the way, the question would soon resolve itself into one of physical endurance, and he expected soon to ask the Senate to hold longer daily seesions, and indeed continue them into the night. He thought that this course would be justified after this week, and would move in this direction, and with this speeific end in view within the next three or four days.

STILL SUFFERING

Another Hot Day at the Strip Registration Booths.

Many Cases of Sickness and Prostration -Hundreds Made III by Breathing Dust-Laden Air.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 14.-The Cherokee boomers have only forty hours to wait before the Strip becomes theirs. The time is all too long for those who have received their certificates of registration and are anxious for the race, but for those who are still awaiting the opportunity to register it is all too short. The severe conditions are present to-day that obtained yesterday, causing the thousands of home seekers so much suffering. The sun poured down a burning heat the whole day, and the lack of water and shelter at the registration booths to-day is causing increased sickness and prostration. Yesterday a hot wind sprung up, which was the hottest day in this part of the country for many years. In the shade away from the wind the thermometer registered 103. The suffering of the line yesterday was so intense, and the registration proceeded so slowly, that a good deal of riotous talk has been indulged in by boomers, both in town and at the booths.

Dr. Gallagher, in charge of the registraengaged six more clerks morning. Men were ine this morning who have been in line since Monday evening, and they are literally exhausted. Hundreds of men in the line are afflicted with a throat and lung disorder, caused by breathing the dust-laden air, and many have been obliged to drop out and come to town for ald from the physicians.

Last night the Willow Springs town held an election of officers in the City Hall here. This is the first town in the strip to organize in this manner and, on Saturday, when the people get there the town will be regularly organized and ready to do business as such. All the business men who are going to open stores and banks and all parchasers of residence lots were present. The executive officer will be called president.

Bushyhead placed his town of Kildare on the market, last night, and sold his first business lot for $450. The Cherokees will commence to advertise largely from now on and expect to have a large permanent population established in their eighth town by Saturday night. This eystem of building new towns in a new country is entirely original, and will do away with the rushing, fighting and contesting which characterized the establishing of new towns in

Last night the Santa Fe train arrived in five sections. Every section was crowded with passengers and nearly all stopped here. Soon hundreds of men were scouring the town looking for lodgings. A larger number of men than ever were compalled to sleep on the streets. This moraing crowded trains came in over all lines. Fully forty thousand strangers are within and about the town, and at the present rate of progression fully one-third will not be able to register, and through no

The boomers who own fast horses have been bitterly opposed to the running of trains into the strip Saturday. have just discovered evidence a number of owners horses here and at Guthrie have hired a gang of sconers to go upon the Strip and burn the bridges the night before, thus shutting off train transportation. The marshal of Oklahoma has been asked for a lot of deputy marshals to guard the bridges. All bridges will be watched from now until after the run. The job, as planned by the horse owners, was to divide all lands secured by them with the sooners who fired the bridges. Santa officials have been informed of the scheme, and are taking

All the big cattlemen having ranges in the Southwestern country telegraphed the following protest to President Cleveland this afternoon: "The undersigned cattlemen, thoroughly posted upon the condition of affairs here, respectfully protest against the registration system as carried on at the booths. Ten thousand people are now in line, and thousands arrive on each train. A conflict between parties not registered and the troops is imminent, unless this system is abandoned. The honor of your administration is being jeopardized. Common humanity demands relief for honest settlers desiring to enter the strip, but who cannot register." Dr. Gallagher, of the Interior Department, having charge of the registration booths, received a telegram from Secretary Hoke Smith, to-day, authorizing him to take all steps necessary to facilitate registration and to render registration as convenient and comfortable as possible.

Help for the Registrars. WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.-Land Commissioner Lamare has been notified that the force employed at the Cherokee Strip is insufficient. He has telegraphed Chief Clerk Jacobs, Inspector Swineford and Special Agent Womack unrestricted orders to employ all additional help necessary. Carfe blane instructions to establish booths wherever necessary have been made. Each booth will hereafter, it is stated at the Land Office, be kept open twenty-four

Mr. A. J. Beveridge Presents the Wasson Banner to Franklin Post-The Griffin Case at Columbus.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., Sept. 14.-The second day's session of the conference began this morning at 8:30 o'clock. Dr. H. A. Cleveland, of Indianapolis, led the devotional exercises, by appointment of Bishop Newman. At the close the Bishop gave his first half hour's address to the young preachers of the conference. His theme this morning was "Methods of Study." It was rare treat to hear this distinguished scholar and preacher speak upon the laws of thought and the necessity of the preacher being a thinker. His suggestion as to how to read a book or study a period in history were highly appreciated, and at the close of his remarks he was enthusiastically applauded. Secretary Kemp then read the minutes of yesterday's session, and the official work of the conference proceeded. A draft for $25 was ordered on the chartered fund, and also a draft for $1,305 on the New York Book Concern. N. E. Boring was excused on account of the serious illness of his wife, and B. A. Johnson also, because of serious illness in his family. The twentieth question was resumed, and J. M. Baxter, presiding elder of New Albany, was called, his character passed, and he made his report of the work of the year just closed. It indicated a year of more than usual activity and, notwithstanding the drought and money crisis, the benevolent collections will be in advance of last year. He closes his fourth year as presiding elder in the district. The several pastors of the district were called, their characters passed, and they reported their benevolences. W. B. Collins, the presiding elder of the Vincennes district, was next called, his character passed, and he submitted his sixth and last report, as his time has now expired. He has had a prosperous six-year term on the district, and each year has gradually increased over its predecessor until this final one, which shows the best of all. There were 1,910 additions to the church. 653 Western Christian Advocates taken $2,524 raised for missions and $1,615 for wornout preachers, their widows and orphans. At the close of his excellent report, W. P. Barnhill, on behalf of the preachers of the district, presented him with a set of cyclopedias, to which Rev. Collins made a feeling response. Dr. Curts, of Chicago. represented the interests of the Book Concern, located at Cincinnatt. The hour having arrived for the consideration of the Preachers' Aid Society, Bishop Newman called the society to order, and the scoretary, Hon. Judge Wilson Morrow, of Indianapolis, read his report. The total assets. $36,534.16, show a splendid merease of the society's funds, and was gratifying news to the conference; $2,216.14 was given to the conference disbursing committee. At 3 o'clock the conference anniversary ex ercises of the W. F. M. Society were held The session was interesting and largely attended. At 4 P. The Wasson Banner Presented to Wads worth Post No. 127 G. A. R. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

FRANKLIN, Ind., Sept. 14.-Two thousand people thronged the opera house this evening to witness the formal acceptance by Wadsworth Post, No. 127, G. A. R., of this city, of the beautiful banner donated by H. P. Wasson & Co., of Indianapolis. Capt. J. M. Storey presided as master of ceremonies and the members of Wadsworth Post in uniform were the honored guests of the city. The "Baldheaded" Glee Club, of Indianapolis, and a number of other visitors took part in the entertainment. The programme opened with an invocation by Rev. Mr. Marshall, followed by music by the Frankin Military Band. A. J Beveridge made a brilliant speech presenting the banner which was received by President Stott, of Franklin College, who is a member of the post, in a felicitous reply in which he duly extelled the enterprice of Franklin. R. A. Brown, editor of the Republican, speke for the generation that had come to manhood and womanhood since the war and suggested that Franklin should have a monument to commemorate the valor of the soldiers of Johnson county. Prof. C. H. Hall, in a neat speech, moved that a committee be chosen to carry this suggestion into effect. The motion passed unanimously. The committee chosen con- for two terms. Lee, a member of the post, made a humorous speech, giving several war incidents. There was a general demand for Mr. Wasson, the donor of the four-hundreddollar banner, and as he appeared he was received with rousing cheers. He spoke briefly, paying a high compliment to the post and the friends who had determined by their votes that Wadsworth Post should have the valued trophy, which represents the surrender of Lee at Appomattox. J. Burgess Brown recited a pathetic story, in which a crippled soldier of the war was the hero. Speeches were also made by Col. S. P. Oyler, Mayor of the city, and J. W. Fesler, H. C. Adams and J. N. Dooley, of Indianapolis. The "Baldheaded" Glee Club covered itself with glory. Wadsworth Post includes in its membership the president of a college. three preachers, four doctors, a number of lawyers, many of the leading business men of the city and a score or more of the solid men of the town, besides a number of the leading farmers of the county.

SAYS HE DIDN'T KISS HER.

Superintendent Griffin Getting the Best of His Accusers at Columbus.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal, COLUMBUS, Ind., Sept. 14 .- All of today was consumed in hearing evidence in the case against County Superintendent William J. Griffin. The promised sensation of yesterday did not materialize, and the petitioners fell short of proving much that they promised in the start. At an earlier hour than was expected the petitioners closed their case. In his own behalf Superintendent Griffin took the stand and denied that he ever kissed Miss Nixon, as testified to yesterday. He stated that he did not introduce this woman as his wife to State Superintendent Vories at the State Teachers' Institute, and in this his evidence was supported by Vories, who said that she was introduced to him as Miss Nixon. The evidence is all in, and the case will be argued before the commissioners to-morrow morning.

Threaten to Kotfe Holman. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. RUSHVILLE, Ind., Sept. 14.—Harmony is a dear article at present among Rush county Democracy over the postoffice. According to a report sent from here Judge Holman has, after a long struggle, concluded to recommend W. S. Meredith for the place, and has written a letter to that effect to one of his workers here. The friends of J. A. Spurrier, D. P. Shawhan and Douglas Morris say the letter cannot be produced and that it is only a scheme of "Col." Milt Ochiltree to try and deceive the Democratic workers. The report printed in an Indianapolis paper created more indignation and bitterness in the Democratic ranks than anything that has occurred for years. Meredith's opponents claim there is no truth in the story, as Judge Holman wants the votes of the Rush county Democrats in the next congressional convention. It seems that Meredith is a rank outsider. The friends and supporters of Spurrier, Shawhan and Morris say if Holman recommends either of them well and good, but if he helps Meredith he destroys all hope of support from the Rush county Democracy in the next convention.

Batch of Forged Notes Found. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. COLUMBUS, Ind., Sept. 14.—Before noon to-day Adam Keller, a well-known capitalist and former contractor in this city, filed a suit in court demanding $10,000 of Miller & Wichman, a defunct agricultural establishment, and John W. Morgan, assignee. The suit was to recover on eighty-four promissory notes indorsed by Miller & Wichman, amounting to $8,909. Keller many prominent farmers appear to the notes, as do also the names of parties who have been dead for more than three years. The names of men who have not resided in this county for four years also appear. Miller fled several weeks ago, and is sup-posed to be in Mexico. The forgeries are in two languages. Miller, who was a councilman, was an expert in this line, and signed several of these notes in a fine German hand, as if written by some woman. Two Old Martinsville Residents Killed.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MARTINSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 14 .- A telegram has just been received here saying James M. Coleman, formerly a prominent member of the local bar, was killed in Chicago by the care. His body will be brought here this evening, on its way to Morgantown for burial. Mr. Coleman was a son of Harvey Coleman, and was born and reared near Morgantown, this county. He leaves a wife and two sons. Word reached here to-day announcing that Thomas Dixon, formerly sheriff of Morgan county, was killed in Kansas City, Mo., by electric street cars. No particulars further than this. Mr. Dixon was sheriff Kan., for the past fifteen years.

Licensed Saloon Keepers' League. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 14.-The second annual State convention of the Licensed Saloon Keepers' League began here this morning, with only a fair attendance. There had been talk of more than one thousand visitors to the city, but not over two hundred came. The executive board was in session yesterday afternoon and last night, going over the books of the State league, as also of the National League News, the official organ of the league. Today Mayor Ross delivered an address of welcome. The total membership in the State is 2,300. The election of officers will be held to-morrow.

BRIGHTER DAYS HAVE COME

Optimistic Speech by Controller of the Currency Eckels.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.-Around a banquet

board, shaped like a horseshoe, emblematic of the good luck that attended Chicago during the panicky days of July, gathered the bankers of Chicago to-night to do honor to their guest, Controller James H. Eckels. The men present at the banquet were the most prominent in Chicago and Western financiai circles. In reply to the toast in his honor, Mr. Eckels said to his Chloago hosts: "I trust the representatives of the banking interests of Chicago will believe that I indulge in no formal sentiments of gratithis night's hospitality. Under the heavy burdens of great expenditures made necessary by the evolution of your marvelous fair, you have yet maintained such financial standing as has not alone drawn to you the admiration of the people here and elsewhere, but has been of inestimable value in preventing widespread disaster. As an Illinoisan, and your fellow-citizen. I should be unjust to you and untrue to myself if I failed to give warm expression to the pride which I tonight feel in this queen city of this. my native State. One of the great dailies of New York, introducing an account of a dinner there given two months since, at which I had the honor to be the guest, eard: "Amid the craching and topling of Western banks, the bankers of New York, Republican and Democrats alike, met last evening and gave expression to their faith in the financial stability of our country." It cannot be a source of mutual congratulation that the gather ing of to-night is under other and different circumstances. The disasters then threatening, happily for us all, have passed away. Affrighted depositors, realizing that they have done an injury to themselves, and feeling that the thousands of banking institutions which they suddenly and without cause doubted, are yet as solvent as the years of their implicit contidence in them, are returing their money that it may no longer lie in wasteful idleness, but again entering the channels of trade give life to the deadened industries. "On every hand is evidence of a bettered condition, so marked that he who runs may read. The paralysis of fear which so insidiously came upon the people is surely leaving them. From Jan. 1 to the 15th of August 154 national avers they are all forgeries. The names of | banks, under the pressure of various causes, closed their doors, but more than 3,800 remained unshaken. Surely the percentage of closed banks was not sufficiently large to make the most despondent believe the system was falling. Was there not cause for encouraging opinions when it was found that almost one hundred of the number were absolutely solvent and would reopen for business? Should the prompt resumption of sixty-one national banks, stronger than at their closing, and the knowledge that more than half that number were preparing to do the same, lead to any other opinion than that the outlook must be brightening. Should reports of deposits largely in excess of withdrawals at each reopened bank, and returning confidence in each community where located be a source of depression instead of an inspiration to hope? I could not have spoken other than I did and maintained the truth. In conclusion, let me bespeak what I know to be the sentiments of the American people when I say that the conservative, wise and judicious contse pursued by the bankers of this dountry is due in the largest measure the fact that there has not been greater depression. The politician and the carping critic may find fault, but the thoughtful citizen, unvotes nor notoriety, knows that the course which has been pursued here and elsewhere by the interests here represented has prevented a panic that would have gathered within its sweep every business interest in the country. In a great emergency the bankers of this country have risen to the full measure of their responsibility, and, meeting it, have earned a people's thanks. The experience through which we have passed has been so costly that hereafter no party will juggle with the country's interests for the sake of political advantage."

TWO TOWNS AFIRE.

Marshfield and Junction City, Wis. Burning-Several Lives Lost.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MILWAUKER, Wis., Sept. 15-1:30 A. M .-A telegram just received at the Wisconsin Central train dispatcher's office says that Marshfield and Junction City are burning. Marshfield is on the main line of the Wigconsin Central and har a population of five thousand. It is a lumbering town, and considerable furniture is manufactured there. Six years ago the town was almost wiped out by fire. Forest fires are raging all around the towns. Several per-

Three Negroes and a Woman Put to Death in Alabama.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MONIGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 14.-News reaches here to-day from l'ickens county that a mob broke into the county jail at Carrollton, Ala., yesterday morning, and, after overpowering the jailer, went into the building and killed three negro men and one woman, who were in jail, charged with murdering a family by poisoning them.

Wrecking the Tin-Plate Industry. Philadelphia Inqu'rer.

The decision of the Treasury Department, which decisres, that tin plate is not tin plate, is so far reaching in its offects that if it is to be believed there is no tin plate anywhere. The decision indicates a determination to wipe out the American tinplate industry by hook or crook. President Cleveland and every free trade newspaper in the country insisted for a long while that there were no tin-plate mills in the country. That position has had to be abandoned. There has been substituted by the Treasury Department a technical shuffle which is as unworthy of it as the opposition to a new industry was unworthy of any American.

S. PENNSYLVAN IA ST shall be their ruins. It is seriously suggested that after the fair is over Japanese lvy shall be planted so that it will cover the buildings, and it is predicted that in a few years the ruins of the White City would be a dream of beauty which would attract visitors from all parts of the counbiased and unprejudiced, seeking neither | try. It would be strange indeed, if the latest of American cities should be the first to be able to show to the world a magnifi-

Note from the London Referee's Humorous Column. Yesterday, as his Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, was driving home from Goodwood, he saw a man murdering his wife in a field. He jumped out of the carriage, leaped over the hedge and ran to the poor woman's assistance. The ruffian, who was killing his better half with a crowbar, was just bringing the weapon down on his wife's skull for the third time, when his Royal Highness exclaimed: "Stay!" "What for!" said the rullian. "Because I order you; sec-I am the Prince of Wales." The Prince, as he said these words, produced his three ostrich feathers from his coat pocket and put them in his bat. The murderer bowed and retired, walking backward, and his Royal Highness, raising his hat to the injured woman, expressed a hope that she would feel better in the morning and resumed his journey.

A Chesp Silver-Dollar Evil,

Philadelphia Record. Venezuela, like the United States, has an overvalued silver currency. It would appear from the report of the United States consul at Maracaibo that counterfeiters have taken advantage of this circumstance to put in circulation large quantities of coins of the precise stamp and intrinsio worth of the Venezuelan money, at a profit of about 40 per cent. on the transaction. There is no means of knowing how many of our short-weight dollars come from the mint. If counterfeiters be willing to take the risk, there is an inducement of 40 cents on the deliar toward putting spurious coin in circulation which contain as much pure silver as the government dollars.
